Mr. Young on Banks
The Prince Might Worry
A Rampaging Lady
Pope Pius To Broadcast

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

EXTREMELY important to [every] business, especially is [the] man who would like to [know] his savings are safe and [how] to keep grafters in their spec[ial]s a suggestion by Owen [Young]. He would establish gov[ernment] control of commercial [banks] for their regulation and the [bank] protection.

Mr. Young points out that this [country] has had 6,000 bank fail[ures] in the last ten years.

He does not say so, but everybody [knows] that dishonesty is back of [many] failures. Mr. Young [remarks]: "It is a great reflection [on the] American people that they [must] have a banking system which [permits] such tragedies as we [have] witnessed."

THE PRINCE OF WALES and [brother] yesterday had arranged [to] cross the Panama canal. They [will] cross, perhaps with anxiety, [lest] we haven't done anything [yet] to protect the canal from de[struction] by airplane attack.

That is important to them, since [there] is little doubt of continued [peace] between this nation and the [British] empire, and the British use [to] demand that we built as freely [as] they did, and for the same fees.

DE WITT MACKENZIE KEATON, called "Buster," [has] changed Kiplings' opinion of [women's] violence. He shows [certain] bruises and a wrecked [car]. Two studio policemen were [needed] to overpower the young [woman] in the case. It would be un[wise] to mention her name.

The lady weighs 139 pounds, and [Buster] Keaton told her she was [getting] too fat." That's the last [thing] she remembers distinctly, al[though] there was something about a [bottle], which the lady collected.

Mr. Keaton says the screams of [the] lady, who asked him for $20,[000] more, were terrific as the po[lice] carried her away.

Nobody knows what terrific [force] locked up in calm, placid [motherhood]. It's like the smooth [water] over Niagara's edge.

NEXT THURSDAY, Feb. 12, [Pope] Pius XI will broadcast for [the] first time, heard all over the [earth].

It would be difficult to overestimate the possibilities of increased influence that regular broadcasts by the pope might establish.

His advisers, doubtless, will remind him that his first talk to the [world] will take place on Lincoln's birthday, an excellent opportunity to say something to interest all Americans, regardless of religion

HORSE THEFT CHARGE BRINGS ARREST HERE

Cosgrove Aids in Apprehending Man Wanted by West Virginia Officers.

CONSTABLE BADLY INJURED

John Kennard Captured While on Way to Relatives' Home in Caledonia.

Deputy Sheriff Chester Cosgrove yesterday arrested John Kennard, 19, of Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., at Caledonia on a warrant sworn out by West Virginia authorities.

Kennard is wanted on a charge of horse stealing, but the charge may be changed into one more serious, according to Cosgrove.

Constable May Die

The youth is said to have attacked an aged constable who arrested him at Pt. Pleasant and to have inflicted serious wounds which may result in the man's death. If the constable dies, Kennard likely will be charged with murder, it is said.

Cosgrove was accompanied by Sheriff Herbert E. Burdette of Mason county, West Virginia, and the latter's two deputies. After Cosgrove took Kennard into custody he turned the youth over to Burdette and his deputies, who last night returned the man to Pt. Pleasant. He waived extradition.

Kennard was driving a Chevrolet roadster when he was stopped by Cosgrove. He was driving to visit relatives near Caledonia at the time of his arrest, Cosgrove said.

Flees from London

Before coming into Marion county, Kennard visited relatives at London until Madison county authorities hit on his trail. He fled to Caledonia with the West Virginia sheriff and his deputies in pursuit. Cosgrove was added to the force yesterday and the arrest followed.

The constable whom Kennard attacked was hit on the head by a half-gallon bottle, Sheriff Burdette told Cosgrove.

Pt. Pleasant, where Kennard was returned, is across the Ohio river from Gallipolis.

4 Miles a Minute Enough for Present, Campbell Says

By The Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6—Captain Malcolm Campbell, who yesterday established a new world's automobile speed record of 245 miles an hour, announced today he would make no further trials in his Blue Bird racing car before returning to England. He may leave for home some time next week.

Capt. Campbell

Campbell said last night he was not satisfied with his newly established record and intimated he might try to raise the mark above 245 miles an hour before returning to England. Today, however, he said he had abandoned such plans.

He still plans to drive his midget four-cylinder racing car, possibly today or tomorrow, with hopes of setting a new speed record for automobiles with piston displacement of less than 45 cubic inches. He made two trials in the tiny machine yesterday, but fell six miles short of the present record of 87 miles per hour.

Whether Campbell will take the small car out on the beach today depends upon conditions of the course at low tide which occurs at 4:30 p. m.

First in 4 Minute Class

Campbell has become the first man ever to travel at the rate of four miles a minute in an automobile.

Despite warnings that conditions were not the best for super speed, Campbell drove his huge Blue Bird II over the beach sands at an average of 245.733 miles an hour.

Campbell is the only man now living who has attained a speed on land of more than 200 miles an hour. The rest, Ray Keech, Sir H. O. D. Segrave, Lee Bible and

ASSASSINATION PLAN HALTED

Man Arrested in Rome Reveals Scheme To Kill Mussolini.

TAKEN AFTER GUNFIGHT

Wounds Policeman and Tries Suicide; Faces Death Penalty.

By The Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 6—Michele Schirru, arrested Tuesday night for possession of firearms and explosives, confessed today, police said, that he had planned an attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini. He had brought two high explosive bombs here for that purpose, police said he had told them.

Schirrua was arrested after a gunfight with police and there were rumors at the time that he had planned an attempt on Mussolini's life, but these were denied by the authorities.

Battles Police

Police said Schirru drew a revolver while he was being searched at the police station, wounded three policeman and attempted suicide, inflicting a serious wound in his head.

In the rooms which he occupied at two hotels police said they found two bombs so constructed as to be used either as time bombs or percussion bombs.

The man was born in Sardinia but had traveled extensively. Police said he used an American passport and was a naturalized citizen of the United States.

In his alleged confession Schirru was reported to have said he had been an anarchist for years but began thinking of plans to assassinate Mussolini last summer while he was in Paris. He went to Belgium and got the materials with which he made the bombs.

Sought Best Plan

Then, the police say, he came to Rome resolved to kill the premier and began plotting the best way to do it before he fell afoul of authorities.

He is recovering from his self-inflicted wound and will be tried by a special tribunal under the defense of the state act which provides a death penalty for the crimes of which he is accused.

EVIDENCE CONCLUDED IN CANNON HEARING

Bishop To Defend Actions Before Southern Methodist Church Board.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Taking of evidence against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was ended before a church board, of inquiry late last night, as word came from within the hearing that among the testimony was an assertion that information on which part of the charges against the prelate are based came from Mrs. Helen McCallum, now Bishop Cannon's second wife.

Today the temperance leader of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, came to the beginning of his own defense. Its nature could not be learned.

Austin O'Malley, a reporter for the New York Journal, was among the witnesses who appeared before the board of 12 elders near the close of direct testimony taking.

Bishop Cannon recently filed a $5,000,000 suit for damages against William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the Journal, based on the publication of letters alleged to have been written by the bishop, and statements concerning him, which he claimed were libelous.

'Pajama Co-eds' Want Minister To Apologize

By The Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 6 Because of his remarks about the wearing of pajamas, the girls of Southwestern, a Presbyterian college, have demanded that the Rev. R. Girard Lowe, a young Presbyterian minister, apologize.

The minister told the trustees witnesses could be produced to prove co-eds had danced publicly in pajamas, "shorts that came just below the hips," and veils.

The co-eds defended themselves in detail, asserting the garments in question were beach pajamas and that no boys were present at their display.

Mr. Lowe said he wanted it understood he had said "some of them wore veils over the shorts."

Mrs. M. H. Townsend, dean of women, collected 126 written denials, issued a statement reprimanding the pastor and called the girls to meet to draft a demand that he apologize publicly.

The statement said:

"Veils: I do not know and not a single girl can informe me as

RELIEF WORK UNDER WAY IN OHIO COUNTIES

State Government and Red Cross Join To Aid Unemployed and Drouth Victims.

LAUNCH HIGHWAY WORK

Armory Repairs Planned; Trucks Offered To Haul Water.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6—Alleviation of Ohio's economic distress was in the process of achievement today with every agency of the state government and the Red Cross united in the common task.

With relief of the unemployed and drouth sufferers already under way in the 24 southern and eastern counties where the situation is most acute, state officials moved to extend immediate aid to other areas where local relief facilities are inadequate.

Under instructions from Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, chairman of Governor White's special relief committee, local officials in the 24 counties were adding employes to the repair sections of the highway department as a means of bringing money to the most needy household.

Meanwhile, State Highway Director O. W. Merrell offered to provide state trucks to haul water to small communities where the supplies have been exhausted by the drouth.

Officers from the adjutant general's office went to New Lexington, McConnellsville, Steubenville, Alliance, Mt. Vernon, Hillsboro, Batavia, Portsmouth, Marietta, Athens and Chillicothe to inspect armories and determine how many men might be put to work repairing the buildings.

Medical needs of stricken families held the attention of the state health department. A report from Uhrichsville said that several babies were suffering. Their parents were unable to buy proper foods. The matter was turned over to Fred Spaulding, Red Cross representative on the governor's committee.

RAIN FORECAST HELPS

Prospects of Break in Drouth Brings Cheer to Sufferers

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 Promises of rain brought cheer today to midwestern residents in the grip of one of the worst winter drouths in history.

Predictions of light showers or rain before Sunday were received cheerfully in almost all sections of the country and were especially encouraging in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and southern Illinois, where conditions have become acute.

So serious have conditions become in some areas that it has been necessary to ship water into many towns and the entire village of Bloomfield, Ind., was threatened with destruction last night because there was no water to check a fire that started in a hotel.

Cognizance of the situation in Illinois was taken by the state commerce commission, which telegraphed all railroads that it would approve low emergency rates for water transportation.

The forecasts today were for slightly colder weather in the midwest warming up again by Sunday. In the east, snow or rain was predicted by Saturday.

SEE RUSSIAN RULE IN WHEAT MARKET

American Farmer Can't Compete, Federal Board Leaders Say.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Chairman Legge of the farm board said today he viewed Russia's officia' grain exports statement as an indication that the soviets were turned toward a dominating position in the world wheat market.

"The American farmer cannot compete with Russia, wheat in the world market," he said, "and if he attempts to he will have to give up riding around in automobiles."

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the board, joined in asserting that American producers could not compete with Russian wheat because of Russia's "free land and free labor."

McKelvie said there was "no question but that Russia, with unlimited virgin land, could produce great quantities of wheat cheaply for many years at least with no land and labor cost."

The two agreed the latest report from Moscow showed Russia making more progress in its agricultural program, especially wheat, than in the five-year industrial plan.

Legge said also that the American farmer could not compete in the world market with Argentine and Australian wheat. Each of them, he said, had the advantage of low cost water transportation, particularly Australia.

GASOLINE PRICE UP TWO CENTS GALLON

Boost Becomes Effective Today; Cost Still Below State Level.

Gasoline prices in Marion and vicinity changed again today, this time the scale having increased two cents a gallon in contrast to the decreases which occurred during January.

Regular gasoline at filling stations operated by the major oil companies now is 16 cents a gallon, and the higher tests are 19 and 20 cents.

The scale for the last three weeks has been 14 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 17 and 18 cents for the better grades.

An independent station whose prices have been 15 cents for the regular and 17 cents for a higher test did not change its scale today.

The new price range is for stations only in Marion and vicinity which are served by the bulk companies located here.

Today's increase marks the fourth time since the year opened that prices have fluctuated here. The 14-cent price which has been operative for the last three weeks was the lowest gasoline has been here for several years and is believed to have been the lowest price in the state this year.

No reason was ascribed for the increase today. It was pointed out however, that the 18-cent scale still is one cent lower than the scale over the state.

LEWIS BACKS MOVEMENT TO GET STRUCTURE

West Center Street Site Selected; Cost Would Be $1,000,000.

CHICAGO FIRM INVOLVED

Fifty Per Cent of Floor Space Must Be Leased by June 1, Is Condition.

Marion is in line for a 10-story $1,000,000 office building.

Proposal to erect a 10-story structure here if 50 per cent of the floor space is leased before the scheduled date for construction to begin this spring has been made by a Chicago financial syndicate.

If the necessary space is leased, the building will be housing tenants at 207-211 West Center street by Jan. 1, 1932, according to R. T. Lewis, local realtor, who is at the head of the movement to locate the building here.

Leasing of half the floor space will be a civic matter, and will require the cooperation of every citizen, Mr. Lewis said. No one will receive any money for leasing, or attempting to lease half the space, he said.

Only One in Ohio

Marion is one of several cities in United States chosen in a survey made by the Chicago syndicate as the site for an office building, Mr. Lewis said. Marion is not only the smallest city chosen by the group, but is the only one in Ohio. It was chosen largely because it is one of the few cities of its size not already having an office building

Correspondence discussing the possibility of locating such a building here began between the syndicate and Mr. Lewis nearly two months ago. This was climaxed by Mr. Lewis' recent visit to Chicago where he spent two days with officials of the syndicate.

Detailed specifications and information regarding the proposed building, obtained while in Chicago, have been presented before a number of clubs and groups here in the last few days by Mr. Lewis. He reports it is generally agreed that Marion should have a building of this type.

The site of the proposed building is on the south side of West Center street, opposite Oak street. The site was chosen from three tentative lots because of its nearness to the center of population and the availability of parking space in the rear, Mr. Lewis said.

Size 60 by 130 Feet

The dimensions of the structure planned for Marion are 60 by 130 feet. It would contain 10 floors and a basement, the second to ninth floors being largely for offices. The top floor is tentatively planned as an auditorium suitable for large gatherings, district meetings, and a meeting place for various groups.

The floors available for offices will house 96 suites 20 feet square. Specifications call for a fireproof building with a terra cotta front. Floors would be of terrazzo, a composition resembling marble. All floors would be ventilated, and all services such as gas, water, electricity and compressed air would be furnished in the rental charge. The building would have two elevators.

The Chicago syndicate has chosen 1931 for its extensive building program because of the low cost of building materials, Mr. Lewis said.

BELITTLES LINCOLN

Biographer Says Former President Not Among Greatest Americans.

By United Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—Abraham Lincoln, enshrined in the hearts of most Americans, was "a man of low intelligence, with few scruples, a clumsy social climber and not a man of the people," Edgar Lee Masters, author of a new Lincoln biography, declared today.

Masters, noted author, has been a student of Lincoln lore for 20 years, and obtained most of the material for his "Lincoln, the Man" from current biographies.

"If both Lincoln and Douglas had died after their famous debates, Douglas, not Lincoln, would be the more visible figure today.

Masters declared the greatest Americans were Jefferson, Whitman and Emerson, and the praise bestowed on Lincoln is a robbery of them, his superiors.

The biography was dedicated to Jefferson "philosopher president of the United States and their greatest president."

WEDDING TO UNITE NOTED FAMILIES

PIERRE CLEMENCEAU

MLLE. TERKA GROSS

PARIS—The grandson of Georges Clemenceau, France's "grand old man of politics," is to marry the great granddaughter of Sarah Bernhardt France's most illustrious actress.

Mlle Terka Grose, pretty brown-haired descendant of "the Divine Sarah" and young Pierre Clemenceau, grandson of "the Tiger," hope to be married in April—if they can find an apartment.

The perplexing-housing problem, however is giving them a great deal of concern

"It wouldn't be so hard," says Mlle. Grose, "if we could spend much money. But we're just like everybody else—we have to economize and an economical apartment in Paris is very hard to find."

• • •

MLLE GROSS is the daughter of the former Terka Bernhardt, granddaughter of the tragedienne, and Edgar Grose an American official in a British manufacturing concern.

She is a graduate of Cour Fenion, an exclusive girls' school in Paris, she made a social debut a few years ago, and between times she has been working with under-privileged French children in a nursery school She speaks English well but prefers French

The 20-year-old descendant of "The Divine Sarah" has no desire to try her fate on the stage. She doesn't believe she has any talent in that direction and she never has wanted to try despite efforts of American friends to place her in the movies in Hollywood.

• • •

SHE is immersed in cooking recipes and household guides these days, for she expects to do the housekeeping in the Gross-Clemenceau menage.

Young Clemenceau, who is 27, bronze-skinned and broad-shouldered, says he expects to devote himself to business and has no ambition to follow in the political footsteps of his grandfather

Recently he made a trip to South America to sell French airplanes to Latin American republics, and now is a salesman for a firm manufacturing electric lights

The young people met at Saint Raphael in the south of France last summer, while both were taking vacation travels Their engagement was announced only a few days ago.

SCHMELING SUED

Texas Fighter Defendant in $55,000 Damage Suit.

By The Associated Press.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 6—No matter to legal complications, Max Schmeling will have to defend himself against a $35,000 damage suit in the New Jersey courts today.

The world's heavyweight champion was arrested at Summit, N. J., yesterday and required to post $5000 bond for his appearance at trial of a suit brought on behalf of Joseph Rahl, Jr., 20-year-old process server of New York.

Asking $25,000 damages, Rahl alleged Schmeling tossed him down the steps of a New York hotel last Monday when he attempted to serve papers in another suit on the German boxer. An additional $10,000 is sought by Rahl's father, for loss of his son's services, and for medical treatment.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

WITH the regular schedule of competition among Marion county basketball teams rapidly drawing to a close, speculation is growing concerning the probable winner of the Marion county cage championship. The tournament this season will be conducted on the floor of The Star auditorium as has been the case in former years but the boys will be the only teams to compete.

It is unfortunate that there will be no girls' tourney this season as there has been in past years. The fairer sex will pack the shorts in moth balls at the end of the regular playing season according to a ruling adopted by county officials before the start of the season this year. As a result of this arrangement there will be two champions in the county, one in the eastern half and one in the western half. Of course there will be no one able to convince either of the two divisoin winners that they are not capable of walloping the titilist of the other half but that really doesn't matter much. They can argue about it for another year and it won't hurt them any.

Practically the same arrangement as in former years will be followed in the settling of the boys' championship dispute. The winner of each section of the county and the runner-up of each section will battle it out for the title of the entire county. This arrangement makes it possible for a team that won the title in one half of the county to repeat for the title of the entire county. It also leaves a possibility that a team which could finish no better than second in the division race can go through and win the championship of the entire county. Just possible I said. It probably won't happen.

At present there are four schools in the county with an excellent chance to finish high enough to compete in the playoff for the county title. They are Waldo and Martel in the eastern division and Morral and Pleasant in the western section. Like all pre-tournament favorites any of these four may be a "has-been" before the time comes to start the playoff but it will take more than a mild upset to keep the four out of the battle for the title.

• • •

All of he four are either at the top now or threatening to get there within a short time. Morral and Waldo are the highest at present but the latter seems in imminent danger of being pushed off its perch before tonight's game with Martel is completed. No matter which one wins tonight both of them should play in the tournament. As it looks now nothing short of a miracle can keep Morral from playing in the tourney regardless of how it gets along with Pleasant tonight. The Barnhart coached team has a perfect mark, the only one in the county, and should easily be able to maintain its lead over the rest of the division.

MOUNTS WIN

Wooster Defeated 46-33 by Fast Stepping Mt. Union Five.

By United Press.

ALLIANCE, O., Feb. 6—In an exciting basketball game here last night, Mount Union college took the leadership of the Ohio conference from Wooster by a 46 to 33 score. Mount Union has won seven consecutive games in the league and Wooster has won seven and lost one.

Lou Raber, sure-shooting forward, led Mount Union to Victory. He scored 20 of his team's points. Courtney led Wooster with 11 points.

The lead changed hands several times during the first half. The score at the half was tied at 16.

CUBS ALL SIGNED

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—Every regular on the Cubs' roster has signed his 1931 contract, and Manager Rogers Hornsby and pitcher Fred Blake already are on their way to the training camp at Catalina Island, California, President William Veeck said that only a few recruits had failed to send in their contracts, and that none was considered a holdout.

KENTUCKY "TIGER" TO APPEAR ON MONDAY NIGHT MAT PROGRAM

Joe Campbell of Buffalo Signed for Other Half of Semi-Final Bout.

The semi-final for next Monday's mat card at the Steam Shovel gym will offer wrestling fans a study in contrasts. It will bring together "Tiger" McKee of Louisville, Ky., and Joe Campbell of Buffalo, N. Y., in a 30-minute match.

Campbell can be compared to "Pinkie" Gardner when it comes to type and is said to be of much better physique. He has posed a number of times for physical culture ads. His wrestling is clean and full of science.

He is causing considerable comment in the wrestling world and many followers of the game believe that he will develop into one of the leading contenders in the light heavyweight division. He recently held Gardner to a two-hour draw.

There is no basis of comparison with McKee. The Kentucky mountaineer seems to be in doubt, once he enters the ring, whether he is wrestling or boxing; and he is good at both. The roughest of tactics are none too wild for him and he tries everything.

It will be interesting for fans to watch these two opposites. It will be a question whether Campbell can pin him with his holds before McKee can lay him out.

[illegible]terday is causing considerable comment among fans here. It will bring together Clyde Robinson of St. Louis, Mo., and Joe Shimkus of Boston, Mass.

Their rough-and-tumble style provides action and excitement and will be a fitting close for the program. Both are of the "Gentle John" type.

Two preliminaries will start off the program at 8:30 p. m.

Governor To Roll First Ball in Tournament

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6—Governor George White will attend the opening ceremonies of the annual Ohio State bowling tournament here tonight. The governor will make a brief talk and roll the first ball of the tournament.

The tournament will continue for the next month. Approximately 250 teams from all parts of Ohio have entered the competition. Only Columbus teams will roll tonight.

Last year's tournament was held at Akron.

Rad Eddy is a youngster on the Purdue basketball team, but promises to develop into a good performer. Purdue, last year's winner of the Big Ten, has had to rebuild its team for this year's race.

Loughran To Meet Baer in N. Y. Fight Tonight

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb 6—Max Baer and Tommy Loughran, who are matched in a ten round bout in Madison Square garden tonight, have at least one thing in common—both have been beaten by Ernie Schaaf of Boston.

Loughran, after he retired as light heavyweight champion and joined the heavyweights, dropped two decisions to Schaaf. Baer, after a sensational career in the far west, made his eastern debut a few weeks ago against Schaaf and was outpointed.

Few boxers ever came east more highly touted than Baer.

On the basis of Baer's showing in his first two New York bouts, Loughran looks like the logical favorite to win despite the fact that overnight he was on the short ends of 7 to 5 odds.

BASKETS and BANKBOARDS

BY "PHOG" ALLEN

This is the fifth of a series of basketball articles written by Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas. In it Allen points out some of the similarities between the game and football which have arisen in recent years.

• • •

LAWRENCE, Kas. — Knute Rockne, the Argonaut of American football, remarks in his characteristic jocular vein, "there are two games I don't like—basketball is both of them."

This is another way of saying that there is too little of mimic warfare in the indoor game. That, in short, the sport hasn't enough of contact and combat; of dumping the interference; of throwing a runner with a clean tackle; of gathering in a punt in proper style, and of power plays, the football coach's delight.

However, there are many coaches who contend that the sports are taking on a resemblance—that football has become "basketballized" and that basketball has become "footballized."

The triple threat man in football—one who can run, kick, and pass, has his counterpart on the basketball courts in the man who shoots, dribbles and passes. Hyatt of Pittsburgh and Thompson of Montana were two great examples last season of the basketball triple threat man.

• • •

A BASKETBALL coach is employed by many gridiron mentors as an assistant to teach his gladiators the fundamentals of pivoting, passing and ball handling.

The pivoting in both games is identical. Passing in each has the same technique. Ball handling in basketball, however, is much more difficult, due, of course, to the restriction against running with the ball.

The clever passer in basketball generally proves himself a very useful man to have around a football field if he has a football make-up; that is, a well knit body.

The better passers in both games, I have found, never focus on any one man. Indeed, a lack of focus is a great help when a receiver is sought.

The "far away stare" in a passer's eye greatly widens the field of his vision. The passer must employ a technique not unlike that of a juggler who handles many objects at one time. To center on any object renders the passer less able to control the whole situation.

• • •

PLAYERS and officials, I have found, frequently clash in friendly jest much to the amusement of the crowd. I recall a particularly amusing example that occurred prior to the World war.

Howard "Scrubby" Laslett, later end on the Ninth Division champion A. E. F. football team, and one of the most brilliant and aggressive guards basketball has seen, was teaming with Arthur "Dutch" Lonberg, present Northwestern university basketball coach.

E. C. Quigley, one of the present National league umpires, was refereeing the game. It was the custom for a referee to designate the offender and the thrower of a foul, and Quigley sometimes would place an emphatic and resounding slap on the offending athlete's bare anatomy.

Laslett did not care for this. He committed a foul and Quigley started for him. Laslett broke into run with Quigley in hot pursuit. Around the court they went, faster and faster, with the crowd shrieking approval.

After three laps, Laslett gave up, much to the merriment of the spectators. The incident proved a recreative tonic for both the spectators and the players. Everybody, including the referee, seemed to enjoy the humor of the situation.

FRIENDLY COACHES TO CLASH SATURDAY IN BISHOP-MUSKIE GAME

Ohio Wesleyan Faces Tough Opponent in Bill Lange's Organization.

DELAWARE, O., Feb. 6 - Damon will battle Phintias (not Pythias as the chap is frequently referred to in defiance of historical accuracy) when the Ohio Wesleyan and Muskingum basketball teams meet at New Concord Saturday evening for their only clash of the season.

Damon's role will be enacted by Coach Ray Detrick of Ohio Wesleyan and that of Phintias by Coach Bill Lange of Muskingum or vice versa, just as you please if you are particular about such matters. The two coaches are old friends and their comradeship dates back to 1917 when both played on the Huron high school basketball team which won the state championship that year.

Detrick and Lange were to be found at Wittenberg on the freshman basketball team the following year and played together on the Lutheran varsity for three seasons. While at Wittenberg they were fraternity brothers, both being members of Beta Theta Pi, and roomed together. Upon graduation both went into coaching.

Saturday's game will be the second in which they have faced each other as rival college coaches. The previous game was played at Delaware with the Ohio Wesleyan team on the long end of the score.

The Bishop squad is expecting a stiff battle with Muskingum and will have to play in better form than it did against Miami Tuesday in order to win. The Miami game found the Bishops shooting poorly and appearing to be somewhat sluggish, a natural aftermath of examination week which is a strenuous event on the local campus. Bishop followers are hoping that by Saturday their team will have sufficiently overcome the blue book "blues" to hit its stride again.

Push Inquiry Concerning Unsatisfactory Fight

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb 6—Instead of waiting until its regular meeting next Tuesday, the Illinois Boxing Commission decided to question Jose Santa, giant Portuguese heavyweight, and Knute Hansen of Racine, Wis., today concerning their unsatisfactory boxing bout in the Chicago stadium Wednesday night.

Hansen's poor showing against the Portuguese Carnera was declared "no contest" after he fell to the canvas in the second round without being hit. The purses of both fighters, as well as those of Marty Gallagher of Washington, D. C., and Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro heavyweight, were ordered held up pending investigation. Gallagher also went down in the second round of his bout with Johnson also without being hit.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times [illegible]

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and [illegible] you will [illegible]

"DOUBLE PAY" WAR VETS UNDER FIRE

Senate Resolution Would Prohibit Salary and Disability Combination.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—While Administrator Hines of the veterans bureau was advocating the cut in disability allowances during hospitalization as an incentive to the men to leave the government institutions as soon as they are cured, the senate struck at employes of the veterans bureau who are drawing compensation as disabled men simultaneously with their salaries from the government.

It approved a resolution to prohibit government employes with salaries of $2,000 or more from receiving disability allowances. The action came after Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, termed existing conditions a "widespread scandal," and named a long list of men drawing substantial sums from both sources.

"It is astounding," said Reed, "to find how much kidney trouble, stomach trouble and chronic bronchitis has been found among these men who never saw France during the war, but were able to show their companions that their diseases came from the army service. I wonder how these salaries sound to some poor enlisted man who is drawing compensation of $50 a month and has no job."

A number of the dazed and nerve-shattered refugees, unable to continue, have fallen by the way and died, where they fell. Pathetic rude crosses have been placed over shallow graves dug for them

City and County Merger Proposal Before Assembly

Constitutional Amendment Outlined in Resolution Introduced by Cleveland Legislator; Many New Bills Filed.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6—Consolidation of city and county governments would be permitted under a constitutional amendment proposed by Senator W. A. Greenlund, Democrat, of Cleveland, in the Ohio legislature before it adjourned for the week-end yesterday.

Greenlund submitted a resolution providing that the question be placed before the people in the next November's election. If voted approval, the general assembly would be required to draft several types of rural-municipal government to be submitted to the various counties and cities for consideration.

The plan would allow large cities to adopt measures permitting the governing of the county as a whole.

Bills Piling Up

Besides the proposed amendment and seven resolutions, 73 new bills, were introduced yesterday, making a total of 408 for the session Thirty-one of the bills were presented by Senator Roy J. Gillen of Jackson They were sponsored by the Ohio Bar association and dealt with a revision of the criminal code

Representative J. W. Headington, Democrat of Knox county asked the legislature to appropriate $51,000 to aid World war veterans who have been unable to cash their adjusted compensation certificates. These certificates were to have been paid by a $20-000,000 bond issue but this fund proved insufficient.

Sales, amusements intangible incomes would be taxed under a bill by Representative G. H. E. Ward Republican of Geauga county. A one cent tax would be placed on each seven sigarets sold, 10 cents on a pack of playing cards, 10 per cent of the admission price on amusements costing over 25 cents and six per cent income tax on certain types of bonds.

Will Name Tax Group

Selection of a joint legislation committee to draft a new tax law as required by the classification amendment probably will be completed early next week.

An attempt was made to name the committee yesterday, but only one member was agreed upon. He is Senator William A. Greenland of Cleveland.

The Republican majority will select four committeemen, two each from the senate and the house.

Leaders in both houses said they would complete the committee after party caucuses Monday or Tuesday.

IT'S A PUZZLE

Either Ohioans or Museum Have Phoney Piece of Art

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 — Around the heads of the "Holy Family" painted by Peter Paul Rubens, an art critics' tempest brewed today.

Announcement that Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Timken of Canton, had purchased the "original" from a New York dealer for presentation to the fine arts gallery of San Diego, Calif., loosed the tongues of argument.

Joseph Breck, acting director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, contends that the "Holy Family" hanging in the museum is the only auch work of Rubens. Dr. William R. Valentiner, director of the Detroit Museum of Art, claims the Timken canvas is the original and that the one in the Metropolitan was painted in Ruben's workship by a pupil.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Feb. 7.

THE astrological prospects this day point to some variable conditions according to afflicting lunar aspects. While the luminaries are in excellent position for fortifying employment, advancement and personal preferments and dignities, yet there are hints of deception, fraud and irregularities, as well as stubborn obstructions to the attainment of desires and ambitions.

Those who birthday it is stand at the brink of a conflicting year, which holds promise of advancement, preferment and favors from employers, elders or those in high places. Nevertheless, there may be difficult obstacles to overcome and there is menace of fraud and trickery to be dealt with. A child born on this day may have many talents and ambitions, but may need to be well trained and educated to surmount stubborn obstacles.

ST. LOUIS—St. Louis water will be softened within the next three years to such an extent that housewives will save $3 annually in soap, according to Water Commissioner Day. Experiments to soften the supply are now being carried on.

GRAINS SCORE MATERIAL GAINS

Failure of Moisture Predictions Causes General Upturn in Values.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—Grains advanced early today after a wavering start. Relative failure of moisture predictions in drouth districts induced wheat buying. Reversal of market position by recent speculative sellers hoisted corn. Opening at ⅛ cent off to ¼ up, wheat later scored material gains. Corn started at ¼ decline to ¼ advance, and subsequently rose all around.

Both in wheat and corn, a feature was unusual absence of selling pressure, a circumstance attributed to apparent inadequacy of drouth relief. Only scattered rains and snowfalls were reported, whereas a general soaking was needed over widespread areas. Opponents of higher prices vainly emphasized announcements that bread in Liverpool was selling at 3 cents a pound loaf compared with 10 cents in this country.

Wheat upturns carried the market to the highest point reached in more than three weeks. General commission buying developed in corn as well as wheat, and both cereals quickly showed almost a two cent jump. Primary receipts of corn totaled 640,000 bushels, against 667,000 a week ago and 1,054,000 at this time last year. Chicago arrivals were 142 cars, compared with 131 a week back and 190 on the corresponding day of 1930. Oats reflected strength of other grains.

Landis' Dictatorship Challenged in Court

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6—Kenesaw Mountain Landis' side of the question in an injunction suit brought by the Milwaukee club of the American Association, was due today for presentation in the court of Federal Judge Lindley—the same court in which Landis once handed down decisions.

The case is listed as a petition for injunction to restrain Landis as commissioner of baseball, from preventing the St. Louis club of the American league, in its efforts to send outfielder Fred Bennett to the Milwaukee American Association club, a St. Louis "farm." It is considered, however, a challenge to Landis' dictatorship over organized baseball.

Plan to Purchase Water Company at Standstill

Proposal Made Several Months Ago to City Officials by Finance Company Apparently Dropped; Council Has Right To Buy Plant Under Franchise Terms.

Discussion over the proposed purchase of the Marion Water Co. property by the city, suggested as a strong possibility four months ago, is now at a standstill.

The proposal was made public four months ago when a representative of a financial firm approached city officials with a proposition to acquire the water utility on a plan which is said to have proven a success in other cities.

Passes Resolution

In order to make later negotiations possible, council was required to pass a resolution declaring its intention to purchase the water company. This step was purely formal and not a significant move. It was simply a part of the "red tape" that was necessary to bring the proposal to a head.

A group of Marionites, headed by Dr. F. C. Smith, immediately launched a drive against any proposal to buy the water property.

When the discussion was dropped, it was with the understanding that the financial firm would conduct a survey of the water property to determine its approximate value. To the knowledge of city and water company officials no such survey has ever been made.

As the resolution of council declaring its intention to purchase the property had to be passed six months before any negotiations could be made, council cannot act on the matter until after April 1. Since no word has been said about the purchase in the last few months, any action at that time seems improbable.

Has Right To Buy

Even should council decide the purchase should be made after considering the matter anew April 1, nothing could be done until July 1, when, according to terms of the water company franchise, the city shall be given an opportunity to purchase the property. The city has this right annually on July 1.

The plan proposed for the purchase of the company, one which has worked in several other Ohio cities, would not throw the taxpayers of the city liable for one cent, nor would there be any expense to Marionites other than customers of the company. The plan did not call for any increase in water rates, but did carry with it the possibility of lower water rates in a few years.

Should the purchase be made, the city would become possessors of the water company property and would operate the plant under a mortgage held by the financial firm interested in the transaction. The mortgage would be paid off with the income of the plant.

Officials pointed out at the time that as the amount of the mortgage was reduced and interest charges decreased, that reductions in rates could be made.

Marion fell way behind in snow fall. Only three inches fell during the month. In 1918 the city was covered by a blanket of snow 30 inches deep and the countryside was white for weeks.

The average rainfall for the month is 3.01 inches. Marion was cheated with only 1.35 inches and brows became deeply furrowed wondering if the cistern water would hold out for the weekly laundry.

A little figuring on the side and statistics prove conclusively that January was a remarkably warm month. Records show that the average temperature for the month was 26.5. By computing the maximums and minimums for the first month of 1931, and a little division process, Marion's average was 32.21.

Daily Proverb—"He is truly rich who desires nothing and he is truly poor who covets all."

The reelection of John L. Lewis as president of the United Mine Workers of America naturally arouses wonder if that red talk regarding his possible defeat wasn't largely hot air.

Robert Lynd remarks that there are three eminent pleasures in life—construction, destruction and obstruction. That last plainly shows that Robert has had his eye on the senate radicals and their Democratic president-baiting allies

"The United States senate," read a story from Washington yesterday, "today headed straight for the courts for a final showdown with President Hoover over the federal power commission." Isn't this a serious mistake on the part of the senate? Doesn't it amount to a confession on its part that there really is another branch of the government?

It's a poor wind which doesn't blow somebody good, and at times the same may be said of an earthquake. The recent quake down in Mexico has caused the oil wells in the Vera Cruz field to increase their flow from five to ten per cent.

A huge quantity of counterfeit United States and British currency turned out in Russia was seized in Stockholm this week. Nothing surprising about that. The people of a government which will duplicate its own currency for the purpose of victimizing its own people could not be expected to hesitate about counterfeiting the currency of other nations.

George Arliss says there are three kinds of English with which he is familiar—"the English of England, the English of America and the English of the telephone operator." Being identified with the screen, George hardly could be expected to mention what often passes for English in the talkies.

Le Baron Cooke refers to Mary as "the perennial Garden," and it's a hundred-to-one shot that Mary's silence indicates that she hasn't yet been able to figure out whether he intended it as a knock or a boost.

The Minnesota house of representatives has voted to repeal that state's newspaper "gag" law, which is as it should be. The purpose in passing it may have been commendable, although this is seriously to be doubted, but in practice it has not only been a great handicap to newspapers, but proved to be a menace to law, order and good government as well. Like many other alleged reforms, it demonstrated the awful gap between theory and practice.

Another World Record Broken.

Thursday saw the crashing of another world speed record. That made by the late Sir Henry Segrave in 1929, when he drove his giant car at a speed of 231 miles an hour, was shattered by another Britisher, Captain Malcolm Campbell, at Daytona Beach, yesterday, when he attained a speed of 246 miles an hour, making his Bluebird II the speediest thing on wheels.

Both the beach and the weather conditions were far from ideal. There were uneven places on the course and a fog made it impossible for the captain to see more than half a mile ahead. He had about decided to postpone the attempt, but realizing how greatly the crowd of over 100,000 would be disappointed, he went ahead and achieved brilliantly despite the fog, besting the existing record by fifteen miles.

How great was the danger he faced in traveling at almost 250 miles an hour in such visibility will be better appreciated after a little figuring. His attained speed of 246 miles an hour means that he traveled at the rate of four miles a minute, or a mile every fifteen seconds. As the fog prevented him seeing more than half a mile away, he could see but seven and a half seconds ahead. In other words, he arrived at anything seen ahead of him in seven and a half seconds. Not only this, but in attaining that speed it was necessary for him to take a start of about five miles and pick up the starting line and the course while speeding at a rate of 352 feet a second. Let the reader look at the second dial of his watch and realize that in the time taken by the second hand to pass from second to second mark. Captain Campbell traveled 352 feet. It's difficult to comprehend such speed.

Thus the record of the late Sir Henry Segrave, who held the record for the greatest speed ever attained by man on land and was traveling at a greater speed than ever before attained by man upon the water at the time he met his death, has been eclipsed, which is the fate of all speed records. They are made only to be broken. Captain Campbell holds the land speed record today. Tomorrow, or next month, or next year, it will very probably go the same way.

Confidence in the Future.

There was much which we liked in the address delivered by Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, before a fine gathering of newspapermen in Columbus, Thursday night. While naturally of higher interest to those in the newspaper field, to whom it carried alike a warning and a promise, than it could be to the general public, there was in it food for thought to the latter. Mr. Wiley expressed agreement with Walter Lippman, the brilliant editor of the New York World, who, to quote the speaker, sees "the decline of the cheap and sensational section of the press and the increasing dominance of the type of newspaper which has assumed the leadership in the past generation—the newspaper of information, intelligently edited."

If newspapers cheapen themselves, said Mr. Wiley in voicing the warning to which we have referred, if they look upon their mission as the purveying of sensationalism, journalism will suffer. "If we strive with even greater diligence to make our newspapers a faithful and full report of the world's activities, if we make our newspapers a greater educational force, if we steadily elevate the standards, the dignity and the public service of journalism," he went on by way of promise, "there are no bounds to the rewards which a rich, free and grateful people will give."

There was one section of the address which should prove interesting to the public generally, and especially that portion of it engaged in business, and worthy of general consideration. As its business manager, Mr. Wiley said he wished he could tell his audience that the Times gained in advertising in 1930. Such, however, was not the case. It lost 5,580,000 agate lines. But in spite of this loss of advertising and the consequent financial loss it entailed, the Times spent more than ever before for cable, wireless and telegraph tolls, a total of $500,000. It increased its news personnel to 616 persons and printed more columns of news. Its payroll reached $177,918.28 weekly, a new high figure, and "there was no cessation in the constant development of the news service."

Let us be frank and admit that all corporations, all businesses, have not the resources thus to carry on and increase expenditures in the face of dwindling receipts; let us admit that some lines of industry and business are such that a course along the line of that of the Times would be foolhardy. Just the same, had those business and industrial concerns which could have followed done so, this business recession of which we have heard and read daily for the past fourteen or fifteen months never would have attained the proportions it did and it today would very largely be a thing of the past.

Here in the Times we have one great business enterprise which, strong in faith and confident of the future and the reward it would bring, went forward unafraid.

Accidents among the employes of the Pennsylvania railroad last year were reduced to 6.2 injuries for each million man-hours worked, compared with 10.2 the preceding year, a reduction of forty per cent., an intensive "safety first" campaign producing this best record in the history of the road. Campaigns of education make mighty poor "also rans" of campaigns of compulsion every time.

A Series of Earthquakes.

After a year of freedom from earthquakes of major severity, the earth since the beginning of the present year has suffered a series of disturbances which will compare in violence with any in recorded history. That the life and property loss was not greater was not owing to the fact that the quakes lacked intensity, but to the fact that the areas in which the greater force of them was exerted were not thickly settled.

The first great earthquake of the series occurred January 2 off the west coast of Mexico. It was this shock which caused an island to appear in the Pacific six miles off the coast where there never had been any evidence of land before. Thirteen days later, the quake which caused heavy death and property damage in Oaxaca, Mexico, occurred. The third came January 17, its chief force being expended in the Gulf of California. The fourth came January 27 in Asia, and the fifth the next day at an unknown location about 7,000 miles from Washington.

Most of these, the scientists say, were stronger than that of Monday in New Zealand, which was far more severe than that which destroyed San Francisco in 1906, and compared with which the Santa Barbara quake of 1925 was mild. As it was, it caused the loss of 400 lives and the injury of over 1,000 persons, although the area shaken, comparatively speaking, is thinly populated.

Earthquakes are not unexpected in New Zealand. It is in one of the three major earthquake zones of the earth, and has experienced 2,500 quakes during the last sixty years, none of them, however, of the terrifying volume of this week's. It is the increasing frequency and volume of the quakes being experienced there which is causing growing apprehension, and this apprehension is not lessened by the claims of the scientists that New Zealand submerged and rose seven times from the ocean before it became sufficiently cool to the habitable. Science has established that New Zealand last came up from beneath the surface of the ocean something like 10,000 years ago, but to a terrified people even this lapse of time doesn't tend to lessen the fear that what happened once may happen again.

The American Bible society distributed 5,565,799 copies of the Bible in the United States last year, the largest distribution in the history of the society with the exception of that of 1927. With motoring, the movies, real and mock golf, the state elections and exploitation of personal views on the subjects of prohibition and the depression—when could the country possibly have had time to read them?

The Germans are unable to understand why the 183-carat gem, "La Lune," one of the largest diamonds in existence, should be offered for sale in Berlin, considering the financial straits of the people of Germany. It does seem a bit queer, in view of the rich market offered over here by our gentlemanly bootleggers, rum-runners and other criminals rolling in wealth.

MISTAKEN IDENTITIES.

Editorial Opinion.

THE FEDERAL DEFICIT.

Secretary Mellon originally estimated that the treasury deficit at the close of the current fiscal year, next June 30, would be $180,000,000. Now he believes it will be double that.

"We will close the year with a deficit which, based on present indications, will not be less than $375,000,000," he said in testimony before the senate.

There have been indications that such would be the situation, but this is the first official treasury admission to that effect.

"The present condition of the public finances is far from satisfactory," said Mr. Mellon, who went on to point out the difficulty of making "any accurate prophecy" because of the uncertainty surrounding income tax payments for this calendar year. This was perhaps a wise precaution, because heretofore some of the treasury's estimates have been far wide of the mark.

The deficit estimate may be conservative, as a matter of fact. The supply bills are not through congress and added demands are being made for funds for drought relief, for public construction to relieve unemployment, for naval building and for other purposes.

Even if budget estimates were met, receipts would be $400,000,000 less than last year and expenditures more than $200,000,000 greater. But income tax receipts are down, and customs collections are materially below what was anticipated. The deficit easily could amount to half a billion or more.

It is assumed that the income tax reduction of one per cent. on payments this year will not be continued, in accordance with recommendations of the administration. Whether reviving business will obviate the need for further tax increases remains to be seen.

The deficit this year could be met in part by a reduction of the $300,000,000 emergency balance maintained in the treasury; by temporary borrowing; by a bond issue; by curtailment of public debt retirement.

Or income tax rates could be raised—a thing which no one wants to see done at a time of depression. But if it is found necessary to raise rates, there is no question where the increase should be applied.

The lower brackets should be left alone and surtaxes be made to carry the burden. It is those of small and moderate incomes who have suffered most from hard times. — Columbus Citizen.

THE LEADING THREE FLEETS.

The analysis of the condition of the American fleet in relation to the British and Japanese fleets, made by the Navy League of the United States, does not get its full significance, or even its more important significance, if it is looked upon primarily as a warning that other countries have more potent sea fighting establishments than we have, and might cause us a lot of trouble if they were so disposed.

Among the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the question of fleet limitation and construction is a question of confidence and friendship, not of distrust and enmity. That is the reason it has been solved, while the question of army limitation on the continent of Europe is beyond solution.

The extent of the curtailment of sea strength by the three great naval powers is circumscribed chiefly by the necessity for maintaining a total force sufficient to keep other countries from starting trouble on the high seas.

Consequently the failure of the United States to keep up its end is serious because neglect of its fleet is neglect of an agreement, implied at least, to contribute a just share toward international police work. If this country allows its naval establishment to run down, it is acting dishonorably toward Great Britain and Japan.

Beside that, there is the question of respect to be considered. A person regards even his closest personal friend a little more highly than he would otherwise if he knows that his friend tries to keep fit and is prepared to give a good account of himself in an emergency. Strong men respect strong men and naturally associate with their own kind. It is so with nations.

The friendship of Great Britain and Japan is possible for this country because both of them respect and admire the strength of this country. Let the United States become slipshod and careless, let it get "out of training," so to speak, and grow soft and shiftless, and it must inevitably lose in the regard of its sister sea powers, and suffer at least a diminution of their confidence and cooperation.—Detroit Free Press.

The Word of God.

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with Me. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith.—Rev. 3:20, 22.

Prayer—"Come in my heart, Lord Jesus; Come into my heart today."

Shingles—Tired Man's Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the most annoying conditions that doctors encounter is the ailment called "shingles." It is extremely painful, obstinate and wearing. It is quite disabling when affecting old people.

This disease is usually found in elderly people, but may occur in young adults and children. It is quite rare in persons of middle-age.

Fever is the first conspicuous sign. This is soon followed by a localized skin disturbance. The eruption consists of a group of small blisters, each about the size of a small pea. The skin surrounding these blisters becomes inflamed.

These blisters may form anywhere on the body, but usually they follow the course of a nerve. They appear most commonly on the abdomen, chest, neck, shoulders or arms.

Pain is always present in shingles. It may be slight, or so severe as to prevent sleep. The pain is usually described as darting, burning, drawing or tugging.

An acute attack may last from one week to as long as six weeks. In old and feeble individuals shingles may last for months and even for years.

The disease has two redeeming features. In children the pain is usually slight or entirely absent. Secondly, shingles seldom occur twice in the same individual.

The exact cause of shingles is not known, though it is believed to be due to an infection. Atmospheric changes, exposure to cold and wet, commonly bring on the attack. The disease is believed by some to be a sign of a run-down or fatigued condition. I often speak of it as the tired man's or tired woman's disease.

The treatment is essentially local. Care must be taken to protect the parts involved from injury and infection. This is accomplished by daily dressings with antiseptics and soothing lotions.

The disease is rarely dangerous to life. Occasionally it is followed by persistent neuralgia pains. This is particularly common when occurring in the aged.

Involvement of the eye is a serious, but rare complication. When this happens the best of skill is demanded in the treatment.

It is always best to consult a physician, so that all the necessary precautions should be taken. His advice will lessen the pain and danger of complications.

Climatology, a New Science.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

During the past three-quarters of a century, scientists have been making a study, along wide lines, of the factors of climate. This is a subject of which, as yet, only the fringes have been touched. A vast new science, allied to geography, physiography, meterology, is outlined in climatology. One of the most important studies for shaping the future of society would be a study of human history, throughout the ages, view from the angle of climate and its correlative effects.

It has recently been pointed out by Kendrew, in his excellent and readable treatise on the principles of weather and climate, entitled "Climate" that this thing is in general the most fundamental and far-reaching of the natural elements which control our destiny. In his view, the vegetation of the earth is closely dependent on it, and there are obvious adaptations of animal life to it; of climatic types in mankind, for example, the Eskimo on the frozen margins of the Arctic, the fair-skinned races of the westerlies, the Arabs of the arid trade-wind deserts, and the negroes of the equatorial zone.

The adaptation to climate is both direct and indirect. It is only when men of any race are moved to a new climatic environment that their specialized adaptation to their home climate, and their lack of adaptations to their new conditions, become clearly manifest.

In spite of all his command of the resources of civilization, and his advances in scientific knowledge, the individual white man is unable to flourish for many consecutive years in the heat and moisture, the "hothouse" atmosphere, of the Guinea coast, and certainly the white race is as yet unable to establish itself there as colonists, reproducing its species. The human organism appears to be debilitated by the direct influence of the new climate, and so falls a ready prey to sundry germ diseases such as malaria and yellow fever, which haunt the region. Some changes of climate appear to be stimulating when the change is not of great magnitude, but if a race is permanently subjected to such new conditions it is probable that the type changes gradually, possibly by a process of elimination.

Climate is an extraordinarily comprehensive topic, embracing all the weather conditions, arising from any cause whatever, for every day throughout the year. The magnitude of climate's influence upon humanity is as yet but dimly discerned.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Reminiscent of St. Clair.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The city of Hamilton has an historical well that was dug on the order, and under the direction of General Arthur St. Clair. It dates back to the time of old Fort Hamilton, which stood on the spot. General St. Clair was ordered to go from Cincinnati and establish a stronghold at this point for use in controlling the Indians. He caused a well to be dug within the fortification, and in one corner constructed a building for the powder magazine.

After the Greenville treaty, when there was no further need for the fort, the government property was sold and removed, but the well, of course, remained. The old powder magazine was used as a jail, after it was removed from the fort site. Later it was used as a church, and then as a school-house, and finally as a residence.

The late Thomas Milliken, noted lawyer of Hamilton, knowing of the historical value of the house, bought it, evidently with the intention of preserving it, but dying soon after acquiring it, the old house was left as part of his estate. A way was found, however, to secure it for the local Daughters of the American Revolution, and it is cared for under the auspices of that organization still.

The well is on private property, but many take satisfaction in drinking from it. It is best known locally as "Sohn's Well," taking the name of one of the former owners.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Feb. 6—Thoughts while strolling. The beauty of grey spires on a foggy day. Those Eton collared lads carry varnished hoops to the park. I can never tell Marion Harris from Frances Williams. Something stimulating about a pile of new luggage.

Will C. Lengel, a Durango, Colorado, boy who made good in the city. Everybody says France is full of war talk. Wonder how much of the Nobel prize money Sinclair Lewis will bring home. Sign: "Backgammon Tuition by Appointment." Over a Broadway grill: "Collegiates barred after midnight."

Wish Elizabeth Arden, Dorothy Gray and Helena Rubenstein would get together and give me a tea some afternoon. With Truly Warner pouring. Somehow you expect Lee Tracy to be cyclonic off stage, too. But he's shy. The new quarter-in-the-slot movies—without ushers.

Sparrows that flock around express wagon horses at feeding time. That no-bank-roll manner of buxom Mae West. And her "Diamond Lil" offered more entertainment than most of the Guild things. Those Vanderbilt Fifth avenue butlers who peep from behind curtains at passers-by.

Lots of Social Registerites can not make "Who's Who." The pleasant Brick Row book shop on Fiftieth street. Pink and blue nursery furniture. Those club Casanovas who sidle up to windows where women stop. Any comment upon the weather as a prelude to a flirtation.

Nothing intriques me more than eavesdropping on a gentleman who has just picked up a lady. Any one with cash who doesn't pick up bargains these days is a sucker. A few more weeks and prices will skyrocket. Wait. What became of embroidered texts they put over beds?

I've never seen a cruel dwarf in real life. They are invariably gentle. A tea-room named "Lola Montez." There was a vamp on Broadway's evening parade of buffoons and libertines. A blind man sits serenely smiling in his shadowy newspaper hutch. Strange, the wrinkle called life!

Harlem's seasonal contribution to slang is "Tight like those!"—a phrase indicative of admiration. When one is "tight like those" he is a person of importance. Then there is the Black Belt's "smitchy-like," an opprobrious epithet for the petty grafter.

The richest woman in Harlem is fortunate Alelia Walker, who inherited the wealth of a no-kink nostrum. She is the most notable spender and on occasional rounds gives a phrenetic patina to such hot spots as the Cotton club, Pod's and Jerry's, Tillie's Chicken Place and other sanctuaries of the brown bonton. Aside from social queenship she is the best dressed woman in Licorice lane. Her evening frocks are dazzling and her limousine on auspicious evenings has not only its liveried chauffeur but footman as well.

There is little welcome in Harlem cellars for those who do not partake of native gin. The sober locker-on is regarded as the intruder. With three other non-tipplers as the nucleus of what we hoped would be a merry party a waiter seemed annoyed we did not order gin with ginger ale. "They're gawkers," we overheard him tell a captain.

But I believe my flair for annoying the other fellow reached its high in a ticket agency near the Carnival de Venice on the Boulevard de Capucines in Paris. I inquired the attendant if the opera was on that particular week. Bestowing the most scornful glance I ever beheld, he lifted hands in air and stormed away. Gaining control of his emotions he returned and screamed: "Ze opera is always open. He nevaire close. Nevaire! Nevaire! Jamais!" That was all I wanted to know, and to this day I see no sense of getting so uppity.

Judging from the plans he announces, "Big Bill" Thompson thinks that a political campaign should be made as much like a circus parade as possible. Doesn't he know that circus parades are out of date?—Detroit Free Press.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 6—If the gods of political fortune smile on the Democrats and they are able to organize the seventy-second congress then it will be worth while to keep an eye on the Texans in congress.

Especially is this true in the house of representatives. In that body the state of Texas, through its representatives, would occupy a place of real power in congress.

In the first place, the prize would fall to that gentleman from Uvalde by the name of Jack Garner. Garner would take the speaker's chair from his old friend, Nick Longworth. With the chair would go that big, black automobile which Garner now refers to as "our car."

To Sam Rayburn, of Bonham, would go the chairmanship of the important committee on interstate and foreign commerce. For years the state of Texas has sent men to Washington who have made names for themselves in the field of transportation legislation.

• • •

John H. Reagan was father of the interstate commerce commission while a member of the senate. Since his time there always have been in congress one or more Texans who have specialized in this field.

Hatton W. Sumners, of Dallas, would head the judiciary committee—one of the most important of all. All proposed changes in existing law are considered by this body.

To the "Gentleman in the Wheel Chair"—as Judge Joseph J. Mansfield, of Columbus, is referred to—would go the chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee.

Fritz Lanham, of Fort Worth, would have his choice of two committees over which to preside. He could head the one on patents or if he preferred might choose the committee on public grounds.

There are several Texas representatives who would rank next to the chairman on important and powerful committees—a position which is strategic.

• • •

There's Marvin Jones, of Amarillo, for example. Under Democratic control of the house he would rank next to the chairman of the agriculture committee. Guinn Williams, of Decatur, would hold the same position on the insular affairs committee.

Daniel Garrett, of Houston, would be No. 3 man on the military affairs committee.

James P. Buchanan, of Branham, would occupy the same position on the powerful appropriations committee. However, if the Democrats were to organize the house and Joe Byrns, of Tennessee, were elevated to the position Garner now holds, that of Democratic floor leader, Buchanan would get the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

With the speakership, chairmanship of four important committees and ranking places on four others Texas' place in congress would be an enviable one.

But it all depends on the elections this

How do you suppose Russia manages to escape the unemployment disease?

• • •

EVIDENTLY a remarkable executive, Stalin does not shine in theorizing about outside races.

He expects all the workers of the world, including our own, to point to Russia, saying "There is our government, our fatherland. Let us support them against the capitalists in bringing about the world revolution."

Stalin does not know American brakemen, carpenters, engineers, plumbers, etc. They have other plans, and Karl Marx's whiskers alone would "put them off" before they had begun to study his theories.

Long before American workers join Russia's government, somebody of the Napoleon or Genghis Khan type will probably come along and take charge of Russia.

That always has happened in revolutions.

CHAIRMAN LEGGE of the farm board predicts wheat shortage, which may be serious. The carryover last year was only 40 per cent of normal. NO PRESENT ATTACK PLANNED ON RECORD

Captain Campbell, British Speed Pilot, Says Four Miles Minute Fast Enough.

Frank Lockhart, have met death behind the wheel.

It was Segrave's record of 231 miles per hour that Campbell wrested yesterday; Segrave had claimed it from Keech. Bible and Lockhart died on Daytona sands while Keech lost his life racing at Altoona.

Views Danger Lightly

Campbell, the fatalist shrugs his shoulders when danger is mentioned. His runs yesterday gave him a great thrill, he said. The best sensation came when he shifted from second into high gear and the car fairly took wings.

On the first run Campbell flashed through the measured mile at a speed of 246.575 miles per hour. He returned and was clocked at 244.897 miles per hour. Two runs are necessary for an official record, the mark being the average of the two speeds.

Despite soft places in the sand left by a receding tide, the car held the course like a bullet.

STUDIO BATTLE MAY BRING COURT ACTION

Film Stars, Principals In Dressing Room Fight, Seek Legal Counsel.

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 6—Possible court action loomed today as the aftermath of the asserted studio dressing room battle between Buster Keaton, film comedian, and Kathleen Key, former screen actress, from which Keaton emerged with a multitude of cuts and scratches.

Both principals today were reported to have earnestly sought legal counsel, but neither would state definitely what, if any, court action would be taken.

The conflict, which partially wrecked the sober-faced comedian's dressing room at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, followed Miss Key's request for $25,000, Keaton charged in explaining the affair.

Police interrupted the melee and took the actress to the station where she was released without any charges being entered against her.

"It was over a bet I made Miss Key that she couldn't reduce 20 pounds in 10 days so she could meet requirements of a screen part," Keaton explained.

U. B. MALE CHORUS SINGS FOR REVIVAL

Rev. W. Martell George Preaches on "What Is a Christian?"

The Male chorus of First United Brethren church sang a group of songs at the revival services last night at Wesley M. E. church. A delegation from the U. B. church attended the services. There were 10 responses to the altar call at the close of the preaching last night.

Rev. W. Martell George, pastor of Wesley church, preached on "What Is A Christian?" He said in part: "Christianity is not keeping rites and ceremonies in church, but it is faith in the living God. To be a Christian is to be a new creature in Christ Jesus. A man cannot be righteous, pure or holy unless he becomes a Christian.

"Immediately after receiving the faith of Jesus through being reborn, the dead cells of our body and soul begin to build over anew. The only spirit in the world that is real sacrifice is the spirit of Jesus. He said 'My life for you, my body for you'. He never asks us to go ahead and pick the way but he says 'Come and follow me'."

Tonight Rev. George will preach on "In the Garden With Jesus." Howard Orr will sing a solo.

COURT OVERRULES JURY VERDICT HERE

Claims Judge Erred In Not Granting New Trial In Suit.

Finding an error in the overruling of a motion for a new trial, the third district court of appeals today awarded a new trial in common pleas court in the suit of Lucia Viggiano against the General Exchange Insurance Co.

A jury last Oct. 17 found for the defendant. The plaintiff sued for $1,545, the amount of insurance allegedly due for the loss of a Buick roadster which she claimed had been stolen and which was insured by the defendant.

At that time the defense claimed the machine had been used by Lawrence Viggiano, a son of the plaintiff, for the illegal transportation of liquor and that instead of being stolen, the car was confiscated by a Michigan sheriff.

The appellate court held that the trial court here erred in admitting evidence which the higher court finds to have been based on hearsay. The testimony in question was that of John Teegardin, an employe of the defendant, and Steve Petrovitch of Monroe, Mich., who testified that the roadster was used by Lawrence Viggiano for rum-running.

Attorneys Frank Wiedemann and Carter Patton represented the plaintiff and the defendant was represented by Attorney W. P. Moloney.

Files Foreclosure

The Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. today filed a foreclosure suit in common pleas court against Samuel VanVoorhis and others. A judgment of $2,160 is asked. The plaintiff also seeks the marshalling of liens on the premises involved. Hayes Thompson is attorney for the plaintiff.

Taber Sees New Era for Farming Industry

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6 — L. J. Taber, national grange master, predicted today that a new and better era for agriculture is dawning out of the present economic disturbances and that farmers will have to adjust themselves to a changing world, if they want to enjoy it.

"The farmer's first step is education," he told Farmers' week visitors. "He must understand his problems and their solution. The work of the agriculture college, experiment station and extension forces is basic and fundamental and must be expanded."

Could Write a Book About It

After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. Four months ago I was nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—*Mrs. W. Ohio Mother's Lucky Find

WHEN we find that some slight adjustment makes a marvelous improvement in a child we wonder why we hadn't thought before to give the child this help.

A good example is the experience of Mrs. C. Kahl, 6812 Whitney Ave., Cleveland. She says: "My little girl was doing fairly well but I noticed she didn't eat like she should and didn't seem to have much energy.

"I wanted to do something for her, and a friend recommended California Fig Syrup, so I gave her some. Iona improved so much I wonder why I didn't do something for her stomach and bowels before. It relieved her sluggishness, gave her a good appetite and plenty of energy."

To point up a child's appetite, increase energy and strength, assist digestion and assimilation, there's nothing more effective than pure vegetable California Fig Syrup. Doctors advise its use to open the bowels during colds and children's diseases; or whenever bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, listlessness, etc. warn of constipation.

The genuine always bears the name California. So look for that when buying. At all drugstores.

CHAPTER 9

"Old Ladies' Fancies"

"WHEN Marjorie married," Richmond repeated slowly the words Dr. Netherton had just spoken, "she would not get a penny of her aunt's money. Why did Miss Querdling say that to you?"

"That is a question only she could answer," replied Bill coolly, continuing when the superintendent insisted that she must have had a reason.

"You know how old ladies are," said Bill with a shrug. "She also said that the 'singing fool' as she called Duckworth, hoped to persuade her otherwise, but would be disappointed."

"Why should Miss Querdling couple you with Marjorie?" the superintendent persisted. "Are you engaged?"

"We are not," the doctor retorted. "Look here, you are on the wrong track altogether. Marjorie Blake and I are nothing more than old friends. If her aunt wanted to make silly suggestions, there is no need for you to."

Bill revealed under questioning that Miss Querdling had been ill so rarely that she had no regular physician and that his call on the night of the tragedy marked his third professional visit to the estate. He denied emphatically that he possessed Miss Querdling's intimate confidence.

"Then why," asked Richmond "should she tell you that private matter concerning her niece and the money?"

"I told you I could not account for old ladies' fancies."

"You suggested there was no reason for her to think there was anything between you and the girl. Yet you went off together and stayed talking in the lane for quite a while. Miss Marjorie told me that. How long were you there?"

"I don't know," Bill spoke shortly as in anger.

"What were you talking about?"

"What the devil has that to do with you?"

"Just this," said Richmond doggedly. "While you say you were talking, or immediately after you had talked, some one killed Miss Querdling. She evidently thought you and Marjorie were lovers and she had just warned you if you married you would get none of her money."

The young man went white. It might have been with anger. He controlled himself with an effort.

"As I told you, Marjorie and I are old friends. Is is strange that we should talk together for a few minutes?"

"But you cannot say what you were talking about?"

"No," returned Bill.

"Perhaps," suggested Jimmie "if you will positively assure Mr. Richmond that your conversation had nothing to do with Miss Querdling, that will satisfy him."

"Will it?" said Netherton in a rather contemptuous tone. "Suppose I say we were discussing last month's agricultural show, or Farmer Brown's prize pigs?"

"I would ask Miss Blake and see if she said the same. Here's my point," Richmond said. "If Miss Querdling warned her niece and her nieces lover that no money was to be expected from her, they might think it better to remove her before the threat was carried into effect. It is a hypothetical case that shows there is a matter on which I require to be satisfied."

Netherton's coolness had returned.

"Now I will put my point," he said defiantly. "Marjorie and I are not lovers. Either we were plotting Miss Querdling's death or we were not. If we were, we should deny it. Nothing else concerns you."

Richmond returned his stare. "Very well, doctor, I will take that answer, but your attitude is ill advised. How long did you talk with Marjorie?"

"Perhaps a quarter of an hour."

When Bill said that he had gone home upon leaving Marjorie, Richmond disputed him, saying that when the chauffeur called for him he had not returned. The doctor explained that he had not said he had gone straight home. "I went for a walk," he added hesitantly, "I went to see Captain Stirling. He was not in."

"You went to Captain Stirling's house? His servants will, of course, confirm that?"

Netherton looked annoyed. "I did not say I went to Stirling's house but that I went to see Stirling. I was on my way to his house when he passed me on the road. He was in his car and ran by on the main road just before I reached it. I saw him but he did not see me. It was useless to proceed, so I turned back."

Since there were few people about that late in the evening, Bill said that aside from Marjorie no one could confirm his movements from the time he spoke to Miss Querdling until he got home.

Captain Stirling, he explained to the superintendent, was in a Morris two-seater, headed toward Merrow Craig, though he could not say he was going there.

Bill declared that he had not seen the empty Morris which Green had reported stopped on the golf course. "If I met Stirling a mile away, how could it have been there?"

Jimmie smiled. "If there was no car there when you passed, and you saw him going in that direction, it might have been there at the time the chauffeur suggests. If it was, is it likely to have been Stirling's?"

"How the dickens can I tell?" Bill clearly resented the inquiries. "Is Stirling a friend of Marjorie or of Evelyn. Is he likely to have been calling on Miss Querdling?" questioned Jimmie.

"Why ask me?" replied Bill. "Why not go to the parties concerned? I saw Miss Querdling at about 9.15 and she was alive and well. I saw her an hour later and she was dead. As a doctor I can tell you my belief as to the cause of death. Otherwise I know nothing and shall say nothing."

From this attitude he refused to budge, but his manner was more genial as they left. Jimmie and Richmond discussed him as they turned toward Merrow Craig to question Marjorie.

"Not too helpful, was he?" commented Jimmie.

"The old lady said Marjorie would get nothing when she married," said Richmond. "That supplies a motive, and think of his and Marjorie's opportunity. On their own showing they were with the old lady, or near her for about a half hour, including the moment she was killed. And their behavior is suspicious."

"There is something they have not told us," said Jimmie thoughtfully. "There may be things having nothing to do with Miss Querdlin that they wish to keep to themselves."

"You may be right," he added, "but you must remember that the threat of disinheritance applied equally to Evelyn and Duckworth. Have you made inquiries about him?"

"Yes. Real name's Dalton. A clerk until he found he could sing, and then changed to Duckworth. He's fairly well known. Nothing against him. Duckworth and Evelyn come out cleanest. She says he was with her singing, Janet and the other maid heard them, Marjorie says she came in and told them. Are they all lying?"

When they arrived at Merrow Craig, the door was opened by Janet, the dark-eyed maid. Her manner seemed unfriendly and Jimmie guessed that Ted Green had told her of his conversation with the superintendent.

"Just had a telephone call, haven't you, Janet," asked Jimmie, "Dr. Netherton to speak to Miss Marjorie?"

"Yes, sir." Her tone showed surprise, but he made no comment and she left them.

"Well, I'm jiggered!" exclaimed Richmond when she had gone. "I thought I should be in time to prevent their putting their heads together. Now do you believe they are innocent?"

"Of course there is something between them," said Jimmie. "What is it? That is the question."

Tells How To Get Rid of Rheumatism in 48 Hours

Big 8 Ounce Bottle For Only 85 Cents

It Is Guaranteed

Thousands of well meaning people are taking the chance of being crippled for life with rheumatism.

When a rheumatic attack occurs they seek to deaden the pain with handy relievers— a method that ususally ends with disastrous results.

Every rheumatic sufferer knows that painful, swollen, inflamed joints and muscles are caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood.

When you drive this troublesome uric acid from the blood you are getting rid of the cause of rheumatism—relievers won't do this.

While you are taking the nerve deadening relievers the uric acid continues to penetrate further and further into the joints and tendons leaving deposits so deep seated that they cannot be reached—this often means that the takers of drugs for relief only are disabled for life.

If every person who is afflicted with rheumatic manifestations would start at once to get the uric acid out of the blood—it would perhaps mean the avoidance of crippled joints in years to come.

This can be done by taking one tablespoonful of Allenru three times a day—Allenru acts on the blood and drives from it the uric acid that causes your rheumatic agony, and does it in 48 hours.

You can get a generous bottle of Allenru at Bradley's Drug Store or any progressive druggist for 85 cents—take it with every assurance that it is a real enemy of uric acid—and of rheumatic conditions—and bear in mind, if it doesn't do as advertised—money back. Allenru is just as good for sciatica.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FRIDAY. The end of the week always comes if a fella waits long enough, and tomorrow will be Saturday, and that would be a good day for us kids if we only knowed some place to go and some thing to do. When I had let Jubilee down by the rope and had went down to milk the cows it was not so very cold and all the bunch were in the barn, and Banty said it would be a good idee for us to take all of our slays over to his father's paint shop which is in their backyard and paint them before we put them away for the summer. So when I had finished feeding my face and had brung some stuff out for Jubilee and he had swallowed it whole to keep the other purps from getting it, we all took our slays and went over there and took them in the paint shop.

There was two long green scantlings laying across a coupe of nail kegs, and the girls lifted their skirts and sot on them and all of us but Banty sot on them and watched Banty whilst he painted his slay out of a bucket of green paint that was there. He said his father was going to use the scantlings to make a pergoly, which is something women like to have in their yard and when he got his slay done I got off the scantlings to paint mine for I was next, and when I bent over to take the paint brush out of the bucket everybody hollered and jumped off the scantlings and felt of the back part of themselves and got green paint on their hands. Then I felt of myself, and Banty's father had painted the scantlings that morning! When the girls turned around I told them they were lucky, because they didn't have any paint on them. Feeble said, "You'd be supprized!" Then the three of them lit out for home. We got a jug of gasoline Banty's father keeps to clean his brushes and bent over and washed each other's pants with a rag, so that we got most of it off before we went to school, but gasoline makes a fella feel not so very good when it gets on his skin, and we all of us wiggled till the teacher said we ought to get some flea soap for our dogs before we associate with them any more.

I went to bed without being told when I had fed my face, and when I got my clothes off all of me that I couldn't see that wasn't red was green. I bet anyone that would see us without our clothes on would think it was St. Patrick's day and we were all celebrating. I think a paint slop is a good place to hide your arms. My shirt was green too, and when my mother sees my washing she is going to ... and I wish I ... way to tell her so ... grandma and ... mothers ...

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mr. Spencer Reveals That the Mysterious Blue Car Has Been Much in Evidence.

THE lines around Lill ... mouth etched themselves more deeply when my father asked her how she explained the fact that Samuel Brixton undoubtedly engineered the throwing together of his stepdaughter, Carolyn, and Marion as classmates at Whitney Hall. It was a question which patently startled her and she waited several seconds before answering.

"I've muddled over that a good deal," she said at last. "Of course, a baby could see that his choice of a school for Carolyn didn't just happen. Helena is ingenuous enough to believe Old Man Coincidence was working his long arm overtime, but I've suspected rather known all the time that Sam planned the thing deliberately."

"But there isn't any evidence to connect him with the attempt to steal the box—none at least that would stand up in any court," Dicky said thoughtfully.

"That is true," my father assented, "but there is sufficient to convince us I think. Suppose we see just how the pros and cons stand."

He took up from the arm of the chair a tiny pad of paper upon which in the intervals of our colloquy he had been drawing apparently meaninglow lines. But all of us knew that he was following a habit of years and employing a highly specialized shorthand of his own to make concrete his impressions of our talk and the problem we were discussing.

Independent Gangs

"In all probability Samuel Brixton is the only person who knows anything of Tom Morton's business affairs while they were in partnership," he began and looked at Lillian for confirmation.

"Or afterward," Lillian said. "Tom had no affairs after Brixton got through with him. What he saved from the wreck he invested in safe mortgages and bonds and there weren't enough of them to afford a decent living. Of course I do not know this first hand. His mother told me about it after his death which left her penniless."

"Then it follows," my father went on, "that if there is anything valuable in that box Brixton is the only man who knows what it is."

"The only white man," Harry Underwood spoke for the first time since he had heavily agreed with Lillian's flaming "You have no right!" robbing him of any authority over Marion.

"Ah," my father said complacently, "You subscribe then to the theory that the Chinese are acting independently of these other fellows."

"Depends upon whether Dil Chink who linked to Madge was really in terror of death or going a realistic imitation. I'm inclined to the first theory. Lady Fair doesn't often fall down in her judgment of facial expressions."

"I subscribe to that emphatically," my father said smiling at me. Then he looked at his tiny pad again.

Mr. Spencer's Report

"Putting the Chinese question aside, for the moment," he said "let us see what other circumstances might link Brixton to the attempt to get hold of this box. The telephone message which Margaret received last winter before the burglary, telling her there was something in her possession which she must be prepared to give up the prophecy of the man Hallam, when he left his lodging at Mrs. Tiver's, the unmistakable trailing of Margaret and myself when we took the box to the bank, as well as the familiarity with the house which the burglars displayed—they went directly to Marion's bedroom—all these seem to point to a knowledge which could only be possessed by someone acquainted with the family. I think we can safely assume that Brixton is the power behind one of the attempts to get the box. About the other we can predicate nothing.

"And now," he went on, slipping the tiny pad back into his pocket, "to tell you what I found out downtown. The blue sedan was on the streets this morning. It first parked near the bank, then the driver appeared to change his mind after it had stood there a few minutes, and drove it farther up the street near the station. Three men got out, the other staying in the car, and went into different shops, making small purchases. One went into the bank and asked to have a twenty-dollar bill changed. On the street one of them asked the way to North Haven, and they went over the bridge to that delightful island. The man who answered their question thought they had gone to the ferry on the other end of the island and thus to Greenport on the Sound. But after two hours they came back, driving through the Harbor without stopping, and the people who had remarked them thought they had been visiting some one of the wealthy Summer residents of North Haven."

He paused and tapped the arm of his chair thoughtfully with his pencil.

"That is all the information I was able to glean," he said. "What do you make of it?"
